

FAASTeam presents:

Maintaining your Medical Certificate: Tips from an AME

FAA Medical Examinations are just another way to ensure our safety in the skies. So why do they cause anxiety in so many pilots? What is the examiner looking for? What constitutes grounds for a failed examination or revoked medical certificate? Why does the exam frequency change with age and with class of certificate? To gain answers to these questions and many more, San Carlos Flight Center welcomes Aviation Medical Examiner Dr. Michael Cowan, a longtime supporter of general aviation at San Carlos Airport. This seminar is a great opportunity to meet the examiner in an informal setting, get to know him without the anxiety of being a patient, and learn about the exam process. Dr. Cowan will discuss things a pilot should do to maintain their health and certificate for many years of flying. Join us and revel in the chance to have a lively discussion with an Aviation Medical Examiner without having to undress and hop up on the table first. Note: This is a free public safety seminar, with the intent of helping us all be better informed. Dr. Cowan will not be expected to provide advice about specific situations of anyone in attendance. For additional follow up after the seminar, be sure to pick up one of his business cards and arrange for an individual consultation.
